

SWIN
BUR
* NE *

SWINBURNE
UNIVERSITY OF TECHNOLOGY

We are a library, therefore we publish

CRICOS provider 00111D

Teula Morgan

Manager, Online Services and Strategies

5 December 2008

Outline

- > Background
- > What is library business?
- > Library 2015?
- > Library support for research
- > Library support for open access
- > And publishing?
- > OJS and OCS
- > Building partnerships

Background

- > Online Services and Strategies
 - Online publishing
 - Content management
 - User experience

What is library business?

- > “a commitment to the library as an intrinsic part of and partner in the teaching and learning, and research mission of the university”

Library 2015?

- > “although the University must excel in both teaching and research, it is research which is the internationally recognized measure of success for a University”

Library support for research

- > Materials / collections
- > Web of Knowledge / Scopus
- > Training and Liaison
- > Increasing access to Swinburne research

Library support for open access

- > Open access as a means for promoting Swinburne research
- > Open access research repository
- > Support for open licensing
- > Open access publishing

And publishing?

Open Journal Systems

- > Understanding and responding to user needs
- > Building on identified library strengths
- > Support core repository
- > Exploring potential of repository services

Open Journal Systems

- > Implement an online journals module which provides a publication platform for online open access journals
- > Provide technical infrastructure and support, as well as general online publishing and copyright help and advice.

The screenshot shows the homepage of the 'e-journal of applied psychology' for 'CLINICAL AND SOCIAL ISSUES'. The navigation menu includes links for HOME, ABOUT, LOG IN, REGISTER, SEARCH, CURRENT, ARCHIVES, and SUBMIT. A 'OPEN JOURNAL SYSTEMS' link is also present. The current issue is 'Vol 4, No 1 (2008)'. A 'Table of Contents' section lists two articles: 'The uncertainty is killing me: Self-triage decision making and information availability' by Andrew A. Cooper and Karin R. Humphreys (pp. 1-6), and 'Gender role and personality as predictors of peer and self leadership evaluations'. A user login form is visible on the right, with fields for Username and Password, a 'Remember me' checkbox, and a 'Log In' button. A search bar is also present under the 'JOURNAL CONTENT' section.

e-journal of applied psychology
CLINICAL AND SOCIAL ISSUES

HOME ABOUT LOG IN REGISTER SEARCH CURRENT ARCHIVES SUBMIT OPEN JOURNAL SYSTEMS

ARTICLE Journal Help

Home > Current > Vol 4, No 1 (2008)

Vol 4, No 1 (2008)

Table of Contents

Articles

The uncertainty is killing me: Self-triage decision making and information availability ABSTRACT PDF

Andrew A. Cooper, Karin R. Humphreys pp. 1-6

Gender role and personality as predictors of peer and self leadership evaluations ABSTRACT PDF

USER

Username

Password

Remember me

JOURNAL CONTENT

Search

All

Open Journal Systems

- > Benefits for the repository
 - Content stream
- > Standards
 - Open access content
 - CC licensing
- > We can establish workflows and processes with this content that work for our repository
 - Automated archiving
 - Common metadata

Open Journal Systems

- > Engaged users
 - We're giving users something they actually want, so we're starting a positive relationship with them
 - Can build on this relationship to engage with other repository activities
- > Psychology example
 - EJAP
 - Repository projects suggested by user community

Open Conference Systems

Melbourne, Australia, November 12 - 14 2009
Cumulus 38° South
Hemispheric shifts across learning, teaching and research

Cumulus 38° South Hemispheric shifts across learning teaching and research

We invite you to 38° South, the first Cumulus conference in Australia. The 2009 Cumulus Conference 12-14 November, 2009 will be a global forum where northern and southern hemispheres share cultural expressions of art and design across education, industry, and research.

Cumulus 38° South is more than a hemispheric shift in location. We will explore the landscape of design and examine how it contributes to the world around us. Current problems and future problems are layered and complex. They make new thinking, new processes, and new knowledges necessary across disciplinary boundaries.

As a field, art and design have historically maintained ambiguous discipline boundaries, crossing into fields such as the social sciences, the humanities, computer science, linguistics, and others. The conference will explore shifts in the role of art and design, the nature of disciplines, and transitions across education, research, and practice.

Cumulus 38° South invites educators, practitioners, and researchers to join our cross-disciplinary

Building partnerships

- > EJAP journal – Faculty of Life and Social Sciences
- > Cumulus conference - Faculty of Design
- > Drinks for researchers!

